Our vision for our project

Our concept model of Tiana's bedroom from a princess and the frog serves as a visual bridge between her humble reality and her soaring ambitions, capturing the transition from the weary jazz-age streets of New Orleans to her private sanctuary of hope. The mood is going to be one of "determined coziness," utilizing a warm, sepia-toned palette of amber lamp light and mahogany woods that evoke the humid, soulful atmosphere of the 1920s French Quarter. From a story perspective, the space is cluttered with narrative details—stacks of books, hand-drawn restaurant floor plans, and her father's gumbo pot—all of which emphasize her tireless work ethic and the "almost there" philosophy. The setting integrates architectural elements of a modest attic room, featuring panelled walls and wainscoting typical of the 1920s french quarter, the wide window framing the evening star, grounding the physical room in the magical realism of the films broader themes.

Project Overview: From Concept to 3D Space

This project involves the technical translation of a 2D story-driven illustration into a high-fidelity 3D environment. The focus is on maintaining the "lived-in" charm of the original while adding physical depth and material tactility.

Our planned process is as follows

1. Architectural Foundations & Blocking
   - 1.1. Scale and Proportion: Using the door and bed as primary scale anchors to ensure furniture (armoire, dresser, nightstand) feels grounded.
   - 1.2. Camera Calibration: Utilizing a specific focal length to match the original perspective, allowing us to capture the narrow depth of the room without distortion.
2. Asset Modeling & Texturing
   - 2.1. Furniture: 3d models of the armoire and vanity were created capturing the decorative molding and beveled edges.
   - 2.2. Organic Forms: The ornate headboard required precise spline modeling to maintain the flowing lines seen in the artwork.
   - 2.3. Textiles: Cloth materials were applied to the bedspread and wall tapestry to imitate natural folds and weight.
   - 2.4. Surface Imperfections: Added dust maps and wood grain variations to provide a realistic, non-sterile finish.
3. Lighting and Atmosphere
   - 3.1. Primary Light Source: A high-intensity directional light is used to simulate sun entering from the left, creating the iconic diagonal shadow.
   - 3.2. Global Illumination: Used GI to simulate light bouncing off the floor to illuminate undersides of furniture and book stacks.
   - 3.3. Volumetric Effects: Subtle volume scatter was added to catch light beams, providing an afternoon "glow."
4. Composition and Propping
   - 4.1. Book Stacks: Rather than using identical boxes, each book was modeled with varying thickness and slightly different cover textures.
   - 4.2. Set Dressing: Smaller items like the blue bottles on the dresser, the alarm clock, and the hat on the wall hook were placed to lead the viewer's eye through the scene in a "Z" pattern.
